2-1-1 Texas Call for Assistance

2-1-1 is a three-digit telephone number that individuals can call when they are not sure who to call. On a daily basis, individuals and families can call the 2-1-1 Texas Information and Referral Network to access information about community services who provide assistance with a myriad of needs such as where to find food, clothing, shelter and a host of other community resources. Following a brief confidential assessment of an individual's needs, the Information and Referral Specialist will refer the caller to the appropriate community service.

If you need information or assistance in locating disaster related resources call 2-1-1. Dial 2-1-1 if you need help or want to give help. A specialized purpose of 2-1-1 Texas is to work in a supportive role assisting key emergency management professionals in responding to community services.

While Home Health Services are generally thought of as primarily serving the elderly population, in some cases, services are available to children with certain disabling conditions or health problems. Home Health services are defined as those health and health related services provided:

- on an intermittent basis
- under physician's plan of treatment
- to homebound patients.

You may be eligible to receive these services through Medicaid or Medicare. In other cases, insurance or other third party payment sources may help defray the cost.

To find the names of your local Home Health organizations consult the Yellow Pages of your phone book under “Home Health Services” To locate other health professionals, look under Physicians, Dentists, or Clinics in the Yellow Pages of your phone directory.

Recreation

In many local areas, service groups and organizations offer recreational activities (indoor and outdoor) for preschool and school aged children.
